How to Register

There are two ways of registering for membership and classes:

- 1) From your web browser:
 - a) Enter www.oli.uga.edu into the address bar
 - b) Select Sign in / Members Area in the top right hand corner
 - c) Select the red Registration button.
- 2) or click the 'Registration Site' link at the bottom of each of the catalog pages.

You will be taken to the Sign-in Page

Please Sign in to "Existing Account" by entering your your username and password in the top two boxes.

If you are not signed in, you will not be able to add items to your cart.

If you have forgotten your username and password, you will be able to request a new one using the prompts provided

If you are not currently a member, create a new account by scrolling to the bottom of the page "Create New Account". Once you have created your account, we strongly suggest that you go ahead and purchase a membership now so that you will be ready to add classes when class registration opens.

Membership

- If your membership expired on June 30, 2020, you will need to purchase a membership, i.e. "Add a Membership to your cart" before you can select any of the classes. We strongly suggest that you renew before class registration opens.
- If your membership expires on December 31, 2020, you will be able to add classes straight to your cart.

Adding Classes:

- Late Fall Classes will be available for registration starting on September 16 and running until the day before each class starts.
- On the registration site, classes are listed by week, alphabetically and by category
- To select a class click the "Add to Cart" button - this will take you through to your shopping cart.
- To add more classes, preview your cart, then using the "Back" button to return to the catalog to select another class.

Checking out:

- Once you have registered for all the classes you wish to take, you can proceed through the checkout process.
- If you want to add classes at a future date, you will be able to do so using these same instructions.
- If you are using a public computer, please remember to log out.

How to use Zoom

On the day of your class, you will receive an email from OLLI@UGA with a link to your Zoom meeting. This email will also have instruction on how to use Zoom for both desktops and laptops. Below are the same instructions you'll find in the email. You'll also find videos on how to use Zoom on any device on the OLLI@UGA YouTube Channel.

Click the Zoom link in your email. Your default browser (e.g., Chrome, Firefox, Safari) should open automatically.

If you have never downloaded Zoom before, you will be prompted to do so:

For PC:

Click the link that reads "download and run Zoom"

After your software downloads, click the Zoom.exe file at the bottom left of your browser. Zoom will begin to install.

For Mac:

Click the link that reads "download and run Zoom"

Your new software will be located in your Downloads folder under a PKG or DMG file. Double click this file.

Zoom will begin to install

Zoom will launch, prompting you to enter your name. Please enter your full first and last names to be counted in the roll. Click "Join Meeting".

You will likely be in a waiting room to allow the host and presenter time to set up.

Once you're allowed into the room, click "Join with Computer Audio."

You will usually be muted upon entry, and your camera is off by default. In order to be heard and seen, click the options to "Unmute" and "Start Video" at the bottom left of the Zoom window. You're now ready to begin!

Tips for enjoying (and helping others enjoy) a Zoom meeting:

Please mute yourself if you are not speaking. Background noise (doors opening and closing, dogs barking, laundry machines, dishwashers, microwaves, or microphone feedback in general) is a major distraction for participants. You may not think it's loud, but it is. If a host mutes you manually, please do not unmute yourself until you've addressed the noise.

If you're more than 5 feet from your desktop / laptop, we can't hear you. Be sure to position your face about 3 feet from your device so that we can hear any questions you may have.

If you're going to have your camera on, please be dressed appropriately. If you are not appropriately dressed, feel free to leave your camera off. We'll understand.

If you would rather not speak up, you may click the Chat icon at the bottom of the Zoom window (PC / Mac) and a window will open on the right for you to type your question. The host will make sure to read it.

Tinnitus: Defining a Path to Treatment

10:30 AM–11:30 AM

Tinnitus is defined as ringing, buzzing or any non-stimulus-based ear noise. As innocuous as that definition sounds, tinnitus can present as a severely disabling condition causing loss of sleep, inability to concentrate, anxiety, and depression. Tinnitus is a common complaint of individuals both with and without hearing loss, with 50 million Americans reporting some tinnitus and 2 million being disabled from it. Heightened sound-sensitivity issues can further exacerbate subjective tinnitus impact. This course will further define tinnitus, including the possible physiology of the condition and its causes. Tinnitus treatments including psychopharmacology, CBT, mindfulness interventions, and dynamic psychotherapy will be discussed.

Dr. Ben Greenberg is a licensed psychologist at the Athens Psychotherapy Center. He completed his doctoral residency training at California Pacific Medical Center and postdoctoral fellowship at Boston College. A former symphonic French hornist, Dr. Greenberg has played professionally with the Jerusalem Symphony, Colorado Symphony, Cairo Opera, and Hong Kong Philharmonic Orchestras. For his original research on tinnitus, sound sensitivity, mental health, and psychometrics, he has won grant awards from the American Tinnitus Association and the NIH. Holly Kaplan works on telephone use in individuals with hearing loss. She has thirty-five years of experience in providing hearing healthcare in a variety of clinical settings. At UGA, Dr. Kaplan provides direct services, and supervises students. She has served on the GA licensure board and is active in the Georgia Academy of Audiology.

Retirement Income Explosion: Have More, Spend Less, Live Better

10:30 AM–11:45 AM

This class is designed for those who are interested in building pre- and post-retirement financial security. The process involves three stages: (1) Exploring advances in healthy longevity that affect how long your money must last to live the life you love. We present a unique way to shift thinking from net worth to income and learn about Golden Goose income strategies. (2) Eliminating or lessening housing, healthcare, and family expenses that no longer serve you. (3) Exploring post-retirement working and late-life business startups to enhance income. An interactive Q & A will help apply what we have learned.

Adriane Berg, JD, is an advocate for Aging with GUSTO! She was awarded an Emmy for hosting IRS Tax Beat, the Mature Media Radio Award for Generation Bold Radio, and was appointed to the US Committee on Financial Education. She has appeared on Oprah, Good Morning America, and Regis. A View into Western Civilization Through Its Architecture

8 Sessions: 10/20, 10/27, 11/03, 11/10, 11/17, 11/24, 12/01, 12/08

1:00 PM–2:15 PM

Architect Jerry Cooper, Founding Principal and Chairman of nationally recognized firm Cooper Carry, will lead us in an exploration of how societies down through the ages reflect their structures and their values through the buildings that were built to serve them. The presentation will cover Ancient Egypt, Ancient Greece, and the Roman Empire up to the present day, with a view of Romanesque, Gothic, Renaissance, and Modern structures. Discussion will center on the evolution of technology, changing values and religious perspectives, changes governing societal structures, and their collective impact on the architecture of each period. The class will conclude with a discussion of what buildings might look like today and why.

Jerome Cooper holds BS and BA degrees from Georgia Institute of Technology. He received a Fulbright Fellowship and studied under the mentorship of Architetto Bruno Zevi, (Hon. FAIA) in Rome, Italy, and was a Visiting Artist in 1997 at the American Academy in Rome, Italy. Cooper is registered in 27 states and is certified by the National Council of Architectural Registration Board. He was also recognized by the AIA for his design excellence and long-standing involvement in the profession.

F-117A Stealth Fighter Stories: Myths and Truths

2:30 PM–3:45 PM

From the start of the Top Secret Stealth Fighter Project, it was shrouded in secrecy. Few people knew of the project and even fewer were chosen to work on the special aircraft. As the project moved from testing to operational status, the public would occasionally hear stories of strange aircraft that flew over the Nevada Desert only at night. These stories grew into myths. Even though some were true, others were complete science fiction. Come hear about this special aircraft and sneak a peek behind the curtain of secrecy that to this day has surrounded the F-117A Nighthawk.

Trecy Kent is a Retired US Air Force Master Sergeant, former economics and history teacher, and current Financial Advisor with Edward Jones. He earned a BBA, an MEd in Secondary Education, and an Education Specialist degree in Education Administration. He currently holds a Series 7 General Securities Representative License, the Series 66 (Uniform Combined State Law Examination) License, and a Georgia Insurance License.

Homelessness in Athens: Who? Why? What We Can Do to Help!

9:00 AM -11:45 AM

The class will give a brief overview of homelessness in America and then focus on Athens and its homeless population. The panel of speakers will provide information on who the homeless are, why they are homeless, and what needs to be done to reduce or end homelessness in Athens. Panel members are Tom Kenyon, former president of the National Alliance to End Homelessness; Shea Post, chair of the Northeast Georgia Homeless and Poverty Coalition; Katie Wheeler, Athens Clarke County School District Homeless Education liaison; Davin Welter, executive director of Interfaith Hospitality Network of Athens; Solomon Smothers, regional director of Action Ministries; and Andrew Wilkin, executive director of Bigger Vision of Athens.

Tom Kenyon holds a BS from St. Louis University and a MA from Georgetown University. His career includes working in international education and training and as a not for profit executive. He and his wife are world travelers.

The Amazing Rise of Beach Music: The Sacred and The Profane

12:00 PM-1:00 PM

Take a walk down memory lane as this noted shag dance and beach music historian traces the origins of a southern music genre that spread from the juke joints and jukeboxes of the Carolina coast to college campuses throughout the South. John Hook will share remembrances of the dance, the bands, beach culture, and the music that remains popular today.

Fessa' John Hook is a career broadcaster and the recognized historian of Carolina beach music and the shag dance. He's the author of five best-selling music books, including Shaggin' & Boppin', and a two-volume beach music encyclopedia, The Beach and Shag All Time Top 200. John is the voice of several syndicated broadcast shows on beach music on several radio stations, internet channels and SiriusXM radio.

The Boston Massacre by John Adams

10:30 AM - 11:30 AM

The Boston Massacre is an important historical event. There is a general knowledge about it. But what about the details that are not well know? Such as who was the lawyer who defended the British soldiers? It was John Adams – American statesman, attorney, diplomat, writer, Founding Father and 2nd President. Hear John Adams describe the night of the Massacre and speak about his participation in the trials that followed.

John Roeder has a degree in political science with a minor in history. He was an actor in Hollywood for nine years after serving 22 years in the military. He enjoys providing audiences with a better understanding of history through his dramatic presentations.

For Thine is the Kingdom: The Bible as a Call to Faithful Resistance

(Part 1, The Hebrew Scriptures)

4 Sessions: 10/22, 10/29, 11/05, 11/12

1:00 PM–2:15 PM

In Part 1 of this multi-class series, we will explore the core message of the Bible as a call to God's people to resist the way of Empire (human systems of domination, exploitation, and religious legitimation) and to embrace God's alternative vision for the world, the Kingdom or Realm of God. Part 2, to be offered in early 2021, will explore the continuation of this theme in the New Testament.

Tom Buchanan is Pastor of Friendship Presbyterian Church in Athens, and for the last 26 years has served churches in NJ and GA. Rev. Buchanan has particular interests in historical and philosophical theology, the background and interpretation of Biblical literature, and the relationship between religion and the natural sciences.

The Outer Hebrides of Scotland, A World Apart

10:00 AM–11:30 AM

The Outer Hebrides are a chain of islands off the western coast of northern Scotland. There are 15 inhabited islands. The ones with more substantial population are, from south to north, Barra, North and South Uist, Benbecula, and Harris and Lewis. Wild, lashed by the North Atlantic, and fascinating. This will be a tour of the islands, and at least a few minutes will be spent watching part of the 1948 movie Whisky Galore, from Compton Mackenzie's novel based on a Hebridean crisis! Note that whisky in Scotland does not include an "e"!

Ian Hardin was born in Scotland, and half the family live there. He visits often and is fairly knowledgeable about Scotland's culture, geography, and history. He has a tag holder on the back of his car that reads "Scot wha hae"! If you don't know what that means, look it up!

Remembering Your Sacred Self

2:00 PM–3:00 PM

During more than four decades of regression therapy, hundreds and hundreds of subjects have reported the same things. With this class presentation, satisfy your curiosity about the other side, your soul, and the human experience. Before we meet, you may wish to read Cannon, Delores. Between Death and Life: originally Conversations with Spirit. Huntsville AR: Ozark Mountain Publishing Inc, 1993.

Sharon Carty is an experienced spiritual counselor. Her heritage is Irish and one-quarter Apache Indian. The Power of the Pentatonic Scale

10:30 AM-12:00 PM

Take your guitar understanding and playing to the next level with this course designed for late beginners and intermediate guitarists. Understand how to navigate the guitar neck using a simple method of linking a few chords with the five shapes of the pentatonic scales. This course includes an interactive handout with lesson links and backing tracks for practice sessions. Feel more confident in any musical situation or style, and go from rhythm guitarist to lead guitarist in the quickest way possible.

Neil Santos is a Berklee graduate, author of The Guitar Simplified, and The Lefty Guitarist's Survival Handbook and an instructor with over 15 years of teaching and 32 years of playing experience. His passion for teaching guitar in simple and innovative ways, has led him to his latest instructional creation, The Pentatonic Way, a virtual journey towards guitar liberation.

Hardy's Poetry with a Dose of Hopkins

3 Sessions: 10/26 (Mon), 10/27 (Tues), 10/29 (Thurs)

10:30 AM-11:45 AM

Thomas Hardy (1840-1928) is widely known as a novelist, author of Far from the Madding Crowd and Tess of the D'Urbervilles. That he was also a major poet with a distinctive voice is not so generally understood. Because his poems tend toward the melancholy and pessimistic, we will lighten the mood with poems by his eccentric contemporary, Gerard Manley Hopkins (1844-89). Hopkins treated a similarly cankered vision with a strong dose of soaring faith. Oral reading and discussion. No required homework. No required text.

Jack Armistead (PhD, Duke) taught English literature at four universities, served as liberal arts dean at two of them, and retired as Provost of Tennessee Technological University. He is the author or editor of four books about Restoration and 18th-Century writers, and he was founding editor of a scholarly journal. He and his wife, Jane, have three children and five grandchildren.

We Are All Socialists, You Too!

10:30 AM-12:00 PM

Words are important! If you're going to oppose all socialism, it can't logically and meaningfully just be a knee-jerk opposition against some government program that may not even be socialism, meanwhile embracing other government programs that are truly socialistic. This class will help you understand socialism, what does and doesn't work about it, and why you may think you oppose all socialism but don't.

Lee Reed won the Alabama statewide Birmingham News "Youth Views the News" contest in 1968 on The Threat of Communism. A member of the UGA faculty for 38 years, he retired from the Terry College of Business in 2010 as Scherer Chair in Public Affairs. He was also Meigs Distinguished Teaching Professor of Legal Studies.

Gerrymandering: How Does It Affect You?

2:00 PM-3:00 PM

This class will explore redistricting and Gerrymandering by examining these questions: (1) What is redistricting and how does it affect our elections? (2) What is Gerrymandering and why is it a problem? (3) What can we do about it? We will show how both political parties have actively engaged in partisan Gerrymandering since the mid-20th Century.

With opportunities to discuss the issues in an open and honest way, we will demonstrate the impact of Gerrymandering on voters, particularly Georgia voters. Finally, we will present information about what citizens can do to prevent partisan Gerrymandering, including aspects of the proposed bipartisan Democracy Act, which is still in the Georgia General Assembly.

Joan Curtis and Kitty Donnan worked as trainers and educators for the University Institute of Government and later as corporate educators. Joan has a doctorate in Adult Education. Kitty has worked in public administration and human resources. Both are keenly aware of the need for fair districts to enable our citizens the right to choose their elected officials. Joan and Kitty conducted retreats and workshops for local government groups throughout the state.

Venezuela: Political, Economic, and Environmental Crisis

10:30 AM-11:45 AM

Venezuela is in a political, economic, and environmental crisis. President Nicholas Maduro claims that the demonstrators in Caracas and other cities are part of a conspiracy by the U.S. to drive him from power. He and his supporters appear to ignore the shortages of food and medicine that ordinary Venezuelans face each day. The U.S. and 60 other countries have recognized Mr. Juan Guaido, elected leader of the national assembly, as Venezuela's legitimate president. How did the crisis in Venezuela develop? This course will explore the background of the crisis and the environmental impact on the country of the decline in Venezuela's petroleum industry. New international events surrounding Venezuela and the Trump Administration will be discussed.

Glenn Ames is a retired faculty member in the Dept. of Agricultural and Applied Economics at UGA where he taught for 40 years. His area of specialization was international trade and development. In the mid-1960s, he was a Peace Corps Volunteer in Venezuela. Superfoods and Incredible Diets: Fact and Fiction
9:00 AM–10:15 AM

We are what we eat. Superfoods, amazing diets– all are advertised as making a huge difference in our lives. What are superfoods, what about keto, paleo, Mediterranean, Weight Watchers, and so many other diets? Are they helpful, do they have no benefit, or are they potentially harmful? In this presentation, we will examine the claims of superfood and the currently most popular, sometimes related, diets. We'll look at the claims and then explore the scientific basis, if any, for the claims.

War and Remembrance: How the US Commemorates the Fallen
10:00 AM–12:30 PM

With the approach of Veterans Day on 11 November 2020, the US will pay homage to those who have served the nation in times of peace and war. Often confused with Memorial Day, when the US remembers the fallen, these two days are set aside to show our respect for all servicemen and women, past and present. This presentation will focus on all wars, and, especially those cemeteries and memorials overseas. We will see how the US salutes those who served and those who paid the ultimate price. We will also look at how other nations do the same.

Patton in the Lorraine: Combat in the Fall of 1944

2:00 PM - 3:15 PM

General Patton's US 3rd Army crossed the Moselle River during mid-September 1944 in the areas of Nancy and Metz, France. Fighting both the Germans and the considerable problems of logistical support (fuel & ammo), Patton pushed Gen. Eisenhower for a continuation of his offensive east of the Moselle River. Much to his disgust, he was soon playing second fiddle to British Gen. Montgomery's 21st Army group. With a nod from Gen. Bradley, Patton pushed ahead with combat operations east of the Moselle River that led to bitter fighting with both victories and setbacks during the fall of 1944.

Bill Cosgrove is a graduate of both UGA and Clemson University. He is retired from the US EPA following a 35-year career in Athens. He also served as an adjunct instructor at UGA for 32 years. Athens Symphony Orchestra: A History and a Few Stories

10:30 AM-12:00 PM

This class will focus on the development of what has become one of the finest symphony orchestras in the State of Georgia. While many community orchestras have failed in recent years, the ASO has flourished. This amateur musical organization began under the direction of Albert Ligotti in the late 1970s. From humble beginnings, it now provides four concerts per year, with annual attendance of approximately 8,000. The class will trace the history of the ASO and the leadership and community factors that have led to its success.

Roy Martin has been a member of the Athens Symphony Orchestra since 1985, serving as the concertmaster for a number of years, violin and vocal soloist. Susan Dinwiddie received her Bachelor of Music degree from UGA in 1974 and her Masters in 1979. She has conducted middle and high school bands, middle and high school choruses, and musical theatre for the past 31 years. Latin American Ethnobotany:

Learning About the Region and its Cultures through Plants

2:00 PM–3:15 PM

This will be a broad discussion of the historical context of plant use in the Americas and the impact of plants on Latin American development (keying in on Central America). Duncan will introduce the Columbian Exchange as a point of departure. As a twist, he will provide examples of three non-native plants that forever changed Central America (and much of Latin America) – sugarcane, bananas, and coffee – along with a brief history and explanation of the environmental/social impacts of their introduction. He will then discuss ethnobotany and the Berlin NIH project with the Chiapas Maya that led to creation of the Latin American Garden. He will then discuss the garden itself, with a focus on a number of species that community members can grow in their own gardens.

Paul Duncan serves as associate director of the UGA Latin American & Caribbean Studies Institute and supervises curation of LACSI’s on-campus Latin American Ethnobotanical Garden. As a public service faculty member at UGA, he develops and supervises community service and outreach programming carried out by LACSI, particularly service involving the Athens-area Hispanic immigrant community. Duncan teaches the horticulture service-learning course AESC2990S each spring semester. He also manages UGA’s Peace Corps Prep Certificate Program.

Understanding the Umbrella Term: Dementia

10:30 AM-11:45 AM

What exactly does “dementia” mean? What types of dementia are there and what are the differences? Why is it important to know what type of dementia one has? All of these questions and more will be discussed and answered in this class. We will discuss the various types and classifications of dementia and recommended modalities of care. Let’s break the stigma that dementia is always Alzheimer’s and broaden our knowledge about what it means to have “dementia.”

Abbie Vogt has been a certified Advanced Professional of the Aging Life Care™ Association since 2013 and is Care Manager Certified through the National Academy of Certified Care Managers. She began her career working as a caregiver for the elderly and other-abled in her teens. Since then, her professional experience in the field of aging services has placed her in numerous settings, including hospice, assisted living, dementia care, non-profit and home care administration. She is the owner of a small company, Abridge: Aging Life Care Management, based in Athens GA. Abbie has direct experience advocating for individuals with various forms of dementia, TBI, spinal cord injury, COPD, diabetes, vision loss, mental health issues, Huntington’s disease, parkinsonisms, multiple sclerosis, cerebral palsy, and other various movement disorders.

The Roaring Twenties

10:30 AM-11:30 AM

Will the 2020s roar like the 1920s? The Roaring Twenties were known as a golden age of economic prosperity and liberal social change. They were “roaring” because of the exuberant and freewheeling popular culture. This course covers it all from the flappers to bootleggers, women winning the right to vote, dancing the Charleston, and paying $260 for a brand-new Model T Ford.

Sandy Olson enjoyed a 40+ year career starting as an officer in the USAF. Over the years she has held positions in broadcasting, journalism and marketing active living retirement communities. She does not consider herself retired but in fact has re-fired with an encore career teaching classes on Positive Aging from addressing the myths and stereotypes of growing older to having purpose in our lives and developing an attitude of gratitude.

Southern Journey: The Migrations of the American South, 1790-2020
10:30 AM-11:45 AM

The South has experienced the most discontinuous, dramatic history of any part of the United States. The region has been marked, since its creation, by relentless movement to, across, and from its landscape. Migration is the great continuity, the changing constant, of southern history, the pulse and flow of southern history. That perpetual movement traced intricate patterns across the southern and American landscapes. Including indigenous, white, black, and immigrant people in the story, Southern Journey traces its stories through beautiful digital maps from the first decade of the new nation to the latest census data.

Edward Ayers is a historian of the American South. He has been named National Professor of the Year, received the National Humanities Medal from President Obama at the White House, served as president of the Organization of American Historians, and won the Bancroft Prize for distinguished writing in American history. He is university professor and president emeritus at the University of Richmond.

The Future of the US Health Care System:
After the Election & COVID-19, What Will It Look Like?
2:00 PM-3:15 PM

Healthcare in the United States is highly influenced by politics. The public, through its elected officials, determines what health care is like in the US. Is it oriented to a privatized process or more dominated by government payment and government control? What impact has COVID-19 had on the future of health care and health care delivery in the US? What will the new government of January 2021 look like? What will it mean for changes to health care in the US: more of the same, modest changes, or substantial changes? Are we heading toward “Medicare for All” or maybe “Medicare for None”.

Richard Schuster received his BA from the University of Pennsylvania, his MD from the University of Rochester, and an MMM from Tulane. Boarded in Internal Medicine, he practiced clinical medicine for 15 years, became the Director of Primary Care Education at Kettering Medical Center in Dayton OH, the Boonshoft Chair of Health Systems Management at Wright State University, the Director of the Center for Global Health at UGA (2009-2016), and is now Professor of Global Health at the University of Haifa in Israel.

Understanding Suicide and Its Prevention Today

2:00 PM–3:30 PM

With suicide rates rising across the country, it is more important than ever to understand what suicidal thoughts and behaviors are and how to prevent them. Suicide is complex. Even though more is being learned about it every year, there is still much to learn. This class will provide an overview of the causes and continuum of suicidal thoughts and behaviors, programs and interventions that are evidence-based or promising, and measures that can help to prevent suicide now.

Sally vander Straeten is a social worker who has worked in behavioral health, child welfare and social work education for over 50 years. For the last 18 years she has been passionately dedicated to suicide prevention and mental health. After retiring as the Suicide Prevention Coordinator for the Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Disabilities she began her own company, Systems Development for Suicide Prevention that focuses on policy, training, evaluation and advocacy. Sally is a certified instructor in Adult Mental Health First Aid.

Invasive/Non-Native Plants: Identification and Control

10:00 AM–12:00 PM

Privet and wisteria are just two of the many invasive, non-native pest plants which threaten the viability and diversity of our native plant communities and wildlife. This course will focus on the “Dirty Dozen” worst invasive plants in the Georgia Piedmont, with identification tips and specific control strategies for each, whether space is a suburban backyard or a public park.

Gary Crider works at the State Botanical Garden as an invasive plant control specialist and is a volunteer leader with the Memorial Park/Birchmore Trail Weed Warriors, a group that works to limit the spread of invasive plant species and to restore wildlife habitat on public and private land. In recognition of his environmental stewardship and activism with the Weed Warriors, the local Audubon Society and similar organizations, Gary received the 2013 Alec Little Environmental Award.

Cats! Cats! Cats!:How to Identify and Help Feral Cats, Stray Cats, and Lost Pet Cats

Have you ever seen a cat outdoors and wondered what type of cat it is? Is that cat someone's pet that they are letting outside on purpose or did it get out accidentally? Or is it a feral cat or stray cat and what is the difference? What should you do if it seems friendly? What should you do if it's a scaredy-cat? What if you see a cat that looks pregnant or injured, and what is the best thing to do if you see kittens? This class will help you to identify and help the felines who need help, and also to learn some fascinating facts about both indoor and outdoor cats whose paths you may have crossed - intentionally or not!

Lisa Mancelyn Lowe and Kelly Bettinger are the co-founders of an all-volunteer 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization called Campus Cats/Cat Zip Alliance. Lisa received her BS in Psychology from Michigan State University and her MA in Psychology from the University of West Georgia. She has had a lifelong interest in animal behavior and the natural environment. It was when she and her husband were living in an Athens apartment complex that she discovered a hungry little white feral kitten pawing at a ketchup packet in the parking lot. This event would put her on a journey of learning about feral kittens, feral cats, and eventually the successful strategies of caring for, preventing, and reducing the numbers of homeless felines in an effective and morally responsible way.

Core Value Eating
10:00 AM-12:00 PM

Core Value Eating will help you develop a conditioned response to regulate the impulse to overeat automatically. With Core Value Eating, you stop thinking so much about weight and start looking at yourself and others with more compassion. Eat anything you want, as long as it's what you really want, that which gives you the long-term sense of well-being you deserve. Participants should have paper and pencils available for use during the class.

Mr. Johnny Cusimano graduated from the UGA School of Social Work in 1979. He is a Licensed Clinical Social Worker and Certified Divorce Mediator in Georgia. He retired from Fort Stewart GA in 2017 having served military soldiers and their families for 29 years. He taught relationship classes, trained soldiers in suicide prevention, ran community domestic violence treatment groups and provided indigent divorce mediation in Hinesville GA. He moved to Athens in April 2019 with his wife, Jackie.

Love in the Time of COVID
2:00 PM-3:15 PM

This lecture will present findings from the Love in the Time of COVID project, a study of over 5,500 people from around the globe who have been surveyed every two weeks during the COVID-19 pandemic. The project seeks to explore factors that may buffer or exacerbate the negative impact of social isolation on people's well-being (including good/bad communication, social support, and division of household responsibilities). In addition, the project is identifying who are most vulnerable vs. more resilient during these trying times.

Richard Slatcher is the Gail M. Williamson Distinguished Professor in the Behavior and Brain Sciences area of the Department of Psychology at UGA. His research focuses on how people's close relationships with others can affect their well-being and their health. His most recent research focuses on how smartphones, social media, and emerging technologies impact people and their relationships.

Robert Burns and His Poetry
10:30 AM-12:00 PM

Robert Burns is not only the Scottish Bard and the People's Poet of Russia, but the man who has more monuments dedicated to him over the world than any other person, including Shakespeare and Marx. Find out about the man and how he became so beloved wherever people value the "brotherhood of men and women". And, be delighted as we experience his return on the 250th anniversary of his birth. Participants are encouraged to sample his poems before class.

Ian Hardin was born in Scotland of a Scottish mother and an American father. He came to the US at the age of two. All of his mother's family are still in Scotland and he visits there most years. His mother inculcated him with all things Scottish, particularly Robert Burns.

Walter Cronkite: The Most Trusted Man in America

10:30 AM-11:30 AM

It was a very different time for TV news broadcasting when Walter Cronkite anchored the CBS Evening News for 19 years from 1962 to 1981. The most trusted man in America raised television news to a level of professionalism that was praised around the world. This course explores the life and times of “Old Iron Pants” from the assassination of JFK to the Viet Nam War and Apollo 11. He knew and interviewed twelve different presidents. And that’s the way it is.

Sandy Olson enjoyed a 40+ year career starting as an officer in the USAF. Over the years she has held positions in broadcasting, journalism and marketing active living retirement communities. Gentrification, Race, and Employment

10:30 AM-11:45 AM

This workshop will focus on the relationship between gentrification, racial inequity, and local employment. Building on our original ethnographic case study research in Asbury Park NJ – a city on the Jersey Shore that exemplifies a seasonally gentrified community with a history of racial inequality – we will focus on the ways that real estate development, racial inequality, and workforce development are interconnected with the gentrification process and also strategize ways to address the inequities.

Recommended reading prior to the workshop: Molly Vollman Makris, Mary Gatta Gentrification Down the Shore. (Lewisburg: Bucknell University Press, November 13, 2020. (ISBN: 9781978813618).

Dr Mary Gatta is an Associate Professor of Sociology at Guttman Community College, CUNY. She is a leader in research related to job quality (including workplace flexibility for low-wage workers); workforce development programs, and gender inequality. Her latest books include: Waiting on Retirement: Aging and Economic Insecurity in Low Wage Work and All I Want Is a Job! Unemployed Women Navigating the Public Workforce System. In addition she is also the co-author of Gentrification Down the Shore. Molly Vollman Makris is Associate Professor of Urban Studies at Guttman Community College, CUNY. Her current areas of specialization are urban education reform, charter schools, school segregation, and gentrification. She is the author of numerous articles and her book, Public Housing and School Choice in a Gentrified City: Youth Experiences of Uneven Opportunity, won the American Educational Studies Association Critics Choice Book Award and the New Jersey Studies Academic Alliance Book Award in 2016. She is the co-author of Gentrification Down the Shore.

Virtual Exhibit Tour: The Strategies of Suffrage

11:00 AM–12:00 PM

The Strategies of Suffrage exhibition, which is currently on display at the Richard B. Russell Building Special Collections Libraries, explores the women's suffrage movement from the 1848 Seneca Falls Convention to the certification of the 19th Amendment on August 26, 1920. Join Jan Levinson Hebbard for a virtual tour of pamphlets, newspapers, postcards, play scripts and other artifacts that convey the nearly century-long story of how women secured enfranchisement and campaigned for women's civil rights in the United States.

Jan Levinson Hebbard is the exhibition coordinator at the Hargrett Rare Book and Manuscript Library, part of the UGA's Special Collections Libraries. She holds a BA in History from Clemson University and an MA in Public History from the University of South Carolina.
